Easter weekend is April 3 (Good Friday), Easter Sunday on April 5 with Easter Monday on April 6.

The Easter Bunny has a fascinating origin that intertwines folk-lore, ancient traditions, and Christian symbolism. The Easter Bunny, also known as the Easter Rabbit or Easter Hare, originated among German Lutherans. Initially, this folkloric figure played the role of a judge during the start of the Eastertide season. Similar to Santa's "naughty or nice" list, the Easter Bunny evaluated whether children were good or disobedient in their behavior. As part of the legend, the creature carried colored eggs in its basket, along with candy and sometimes toys, delivering them to children's homes.

Historical Mention:

The custom of the Easter Bunny was first mentioned in Georg Franck von Franckenau's work titled "De ovis paschalibus" in 1682. This German tradition involved the Easter Hare bringing eggs for children.

Eggs have been fertility symbols since antiquity. In Christianity, they became associated with rebirth as early as the 1st century AD. Medieval Europe saw the prohibition of egg consumption during the Lenten fast. On the Saturday before Lent began, English children would go door-to-door begging for eggs. People handed out eggs as special treats for children before their fast. These eggs were likely decorated as part of Easter celebrations. German Protestants continued the tradition of eating colored eggs for Easter, even though they didn't observe the Lenten fast. Over time, the custom of decorating eggs emerged.

Who are the people on the Minden Post Office? Why are they there?

(far left) Charles Curry became the town's first doctor in 1869. A Peterborough native, Curry was a schoolteacher before changing careers. Attending to his patients on horse back through bush trails in the early years, he later used horse and buggy for traveling as roads improved. While in practice, Curry was also a druggist, photographer, school inspector, Reeve and County Warden.

Every minute, someone quietly steps out of this world.

We are all standing in a line we cannot see—a queue we never chose and cannot escape
We don't know how many stand before us.
We cannot trade places. We cannot step aside. We cannot avoid our turn. So while we wait, let us truly live.

Make each moment meaningful. Choose what truly matters. Give your time to what fills your heart. Let your kindness be remembered. Let people feel valued in your presence. Speak your truth gently, but boldly. Turn small moments into beautiful memories.
Be the reason someone smiles today. Be the change you wish to see. Create love. Create peace.

Gather your scattered pieces and live intentionally. Tell your people you love them — often and sincerely. Release grudges. Carry no regrets. Be prepared, but not afraid.

Life is shorter than we think. So live fully. Let others live.
Choose gratitude over complaint. Avoid useless arguments and unnecessary battles.
Walk humbly. Love deeply. Appreciate what you have.
And above all — be happy with the life you are given.

We will remember

(middle) Mary Kent was the first white babe born in Minden and was presented by the government with a grant of land beside the Burt farm, near the present public school. Mary's father, Francis, cleared a farm northeast of Minden by 1858. The following year he was joined by his 20 yr old bride, Catherine Cameron. When Francis was accidentally killed by a falling tree, Catherine sold the farm to Francis Peck and moved to the piece of land given to her daughter. Catherine passed away, age 83 in 1922. Mary and her husband Miles Henderson moved west sometime after 1896.

(far right) Daniel Buck, Minden's first postmaster. He became postmaster by default. According to official records, Francis Kent was appointed Postmaster in Minden. 1860 saw Daniel Buck, genial proprietor of Buck's Hotel, acting as postmaster. In editorial columns in the Peterborough Review in 1860, we find "Gull River (Minden) is recognized as a busy spot. In is the centre for the fine district surrounding it, and Mr. Daniel Buck, who keeps a tavern there, has his hands full, usually to entertain his guests. He is making preparations to erect a large frame building to be used as a hotel and hopes to have it up this fall." In Minden's infancy, there were few travellers who did not at one time or another enjoy his hospitality. To the loggers who ate beans and salt pork all winter, his bountiful table seemed fit for a king. Daniel Buck is buried in the Minden cemetery. Tradition says, it was so wet the spring he died, the coffin has to be heaped with heavy stones to hold it down, bringing the career of Minden's first hotel keeper to a liquid conclusion.

Information gleaned from 'In Quest of Yesterday" by Nila Reynolds. This book is long out of print. If lucky, can still find copies being resold for generally $50.

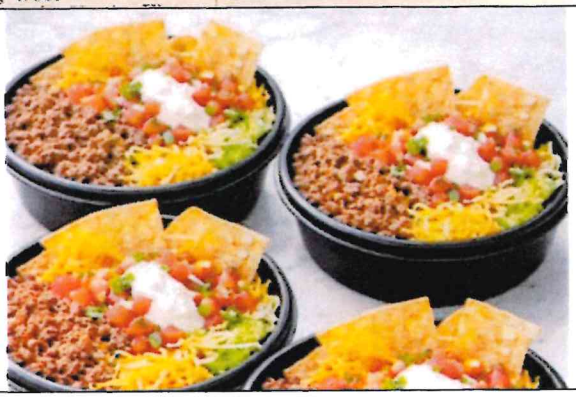
I am so looking forward to trying this recipe. My mouth is watering!



FROM THE MAILBAG

It is with mixed emotions that I have tendered my resignation, effective May 31, 2026.

I have been heavily involved in the Irondale community since 2008 when an adhoc committee was formed to preserve Irondale's history. In 2012 that committee 'morphed' into the Bark Lake Cultural Developments – taking on a mortgage to purchase the Irondale Church property.

Irondale's history is certainly important and needs to be preserved and shared. I feel it is imperative that I step aside and let new blood with new ideas take over.

Please consider stepping up and taking on a position on the board. I will certainly help to make the transition as easy and seamless as possible.

Thanks for your continued support, Carol Simmons

Gathering for a Cause

A small group of ladies have been getting together at the Irondale Community Centre.

Linda Code suggested the idea of turning a bolt of fleece into blankets for the needy.

Once completed the blankets will be given to an appropriate organization for dispersal.

Great way to spend a winter day - friends, conversation and making single blankets light in weight but with ample warmth.

Time in not promised.
The People You Borrow.

I recently learned something call the 'borrowed people theory.' and it changed the way I see every relations in my life.

We treat the people around us like they're permanent, like there will always be more time, more calls, more dinners, more 'let's catch up soon'.

But no one in our life is ours to keep; everyone is borrowed. We never know when the borrowing ends.

One day because the last day, and we almost never realize it when it happens.
So .... While you still have the chance, Love your people a little louder.

Found this while perusing the internet quite a while ago, therefore lost the source.

CAN YOU HELP?

Bark Lake Cultural Developments needs your help.

Carol Simmons handed in her retirement letter! .... officially finished May 31, 2026

The Board needs individuals to come forward and become directors.

This is the last Irondale newsletter, unless someone comes forward offering to be editor & publisher.

Printed since 2008

MY LAST WORDS

I want at the outset to recognize those people that have served as members of the various committees concerned with preserving Irondale's history - Irondale Historical Society 2008-2012 and the Bark Lake Cultural Developments 2012 to the present.
These people offered their time & expertise to the various fundraisers and events that have been hosted over the past eighteen years.... yes 18 years!

It's not easy being a volunteer is any capacity. Our world today is a busy one. While being a volunteer is satisfying, it can also be draining. I'm grateful for every single contribution that each of you made this year, and every year that you have served. Not to be forgotten are those people that stepped up giving their time on an individual event or project. They didn't sit on the committees but offered their help from time to time. Tremendous work!

Thank you! Thank you! Thank you! Carol Simmons

If you are at all interested in serving your community in this capacity please contact me 705-457-8438 or George Simmons before the end of May. Should no one step forward we will be forced to close the Bark Lake Cultural Developments organization and all that entails. Will be shame, no alternative.

Carol Simmons
